The reason of this probably is not that good ohess players are unlikely to be able to distinguish themsalves in other fields, but that chess is too jealous a mistress, and has to be avoided by ambitious men who wish to give all there chergy to more showy pursuits.

Tarantula Spiders.

The following letter signed Big Bore appears in the Madras Mail of June 14 :--Sir, In reply to your correspondent Duchess in your issue of the 8th instant. I write to say that I know of only two kinds of tarantulas, one of an entirely black colour and the other also black, but with yellow marks; both of these have poison, and the natives believe that their bite is deadly. A few months ago, when weighing some sandle wood, a full grown tarantula dropped on to iny knee from a hollow piece, and at once bit me through my trousers. I at once smashed it with my hand, and felt the bite burning. I sent a man to the dispensary for some nitrate of silver, and in the interval I scarified the two punctures, and squeezed out as much blood as I could. The workman who surrounded mo were intently watching to see if I would succumb to the bite or not. My knee began soon to swell somowhat and throb. After the caustic was brought I cauterised the wound and got home. For a couple of days I found the knee rather painful, and then the pain gradually abated. and I was all-right in four days and my men were surprised to see that I recovered; This was not the first time I was bitten by one of these spiders. Years ago I purposely got one of them to bite my hager to prove to snother that they were not deadly. I would add that the sting of scorpious affects me very slightly, and the pain leaves in a few minutes.

This expert stands in a class by himself. But there are other experts. When the war broke out between China and Japan. the foreign Powers did not send attaches to watch the operations and the principal newspapers did not sond their correspondents because the military experts had decided that the war could not be carried on during the winter. The Japanese, however, proved that it could. Then the exports were unanimous that Japan would win a lew victories, but China, with her enormous resources of men and material. would simply annihilate the little men of Dai Nippou. It requires great cour age to hint that the free trade principles, which are held by experts to be the basis of Britain's commercial success, were not the only factors in achieving that success and that the changing economic conditions of the present day may force Great Britain to change and adapt her fiscal arrangements to meet the competition of foreign nations. We find, as a mere matter of fact, that countries with heavy protective duties are gaining on British commerce, and it does not require expert knowledge to see what will be the end of it all if brains and energy and adaptability are not opposed to the same qualities in foreign competitors.

and W. H. Wickham (Manager).

The Chairman said :- Gentlemen with your permission. I propose that we adopt the customary course, and take the Report and Accounts as read. We feel pleased that the figures we are alde to place before you at this opportunity show continued progress. During the past year, we have had a good deal loss work pass through our hands in the shape of installations and such like, which, considering the large amount of such work done during the previous year, is hardly to be wondered at, and the receipts from this warree, accordingly, show some falling off; this, however, is balanced by the expenditure on auch being correspondingly lower. The receipts from current supplied, however, show a satisfactory advance, and the gross earnings for the year under review are not so far behind those for the preceding year, whilst the profit on working is some 311,000 better. and we trust this will be considered entisfactory. Most of the items of expenditure show some increase. Coals show an advance in the amount expended, but there has been a larger quantity consumed, whilst the average price per ton is rather lower. and we hope the course of the market may enable us to still further decrease this. As you will see from the accounts, the new issue of shares is now fully taken up, and all capital due on some to date has been Kobe, against his wife, Grace Virginia Mo- received. During the past year we have found it necessary to make some addition to the station buildings and the staff quaraccounts. These provide unon needed additional accommodation. As will be seen we recommend a sum of $23,348.61 to be written off for depreciation of plant and machinery, and, in regard to this I can only refer to my romarks of last year. Yiz Last, in addition to the ordinary wear and tear on our plant and machinery, provision has also to be made for anola becommy superannuated through the invention of machinery capable of doing the same work at a lower cost. This is a point we have considered if necessary to kean well hafere us and to provide for accordingly. The

CANTON NOTES. (From Our Own Correspondent.) THE FOURTH OF JULY."

The presence of a large man-of-war with a numerous crew gave to the Fourth of July colebrations an unusual interest this year far exceeding anything in the past.

There was a general invite given to the foreign community, and the arrangements luft nothing to be desired. The boat races attracted a good deal of attention. Three out of the four races were practically confined to the American sailors. The Free for All' was really an international race, as it included boats from the American, British, French and German ships, Tho Americans wore on easy first, leading by several boats lengths. The contest for the second place was very keen between the British and French, but the tricolor secured it. Tho-British boat was third and the German very well, and led the way at the beginning, and then, for some unexplained reason, gave up. The breworks in the evening rounded by a high tim wall to keep the were a great success. The one hitch in the entertainment was the failure of the Portuguese Band to put in an appearance. Almost at the last hour they excused themselves. This was all the more disappointing because of the excellent programme of music which they proviously promised. One 'March' that everyone wished to hear was called Shameen in Suspense, depicting the situation of Shameen during the Siego of Peking, 1900. A noisy Chinese Band did duty for the absentes Portuguese Band. Some of the Canton Dailies unde special mention of the fact that a Chinese Band had been asked to perform on the great Fourth: No doubt it seemed to them a. clear evidence of the very friendly feeling that the Wostern Republic professes to have for the Chinese Empire. But, politics. aside, the various nationalities are endebted to the Americana for a very pleasant day.

An order directs that all goods entered at the Maritime Customs as imports must be sent on the way to their destination within three days. The time for exports is five days. The object of this new rule is doubtless to put down smuggling.

THE PASTORALS OF DORSET. By M. E.

London, and Bombay: Longmans, Green and Uo. 1901. The Pastorals of Dorset, the sythers latest work, is a plain and homely exposition of everyday life in the autroundings of Dorset, and is written without any pretension to studied style. Mr Bailey has uneceeded in furnishing the Library with a highly interesting stury. which cannot fail to attract many readers. The narrative takes us back to the days of our helied forefathers, when success in battle was the surest manner to the leve of woman. The chief character in the book is John Newstead, an Englishman, who is the daring leader of a band of soldiers of for but defeated Hollanders. Newstead boldly approaches William of Grange, and, after in his lot with the Datchmen, Alva, with heir destination a horseman, who after ! struggling in his arms. Gasper, Newand his mon, but by some means or other Newstead frets over this. Some time after this reverse, the siege is raised and Newstead becomes a hero. He has an enemy, however, in one of his Lieutonmits, a Frenchman named Vremeil. Jealous of Newsterd because of the girl Gabrielle, he sets about to ruin Newstoad's bonour. As the result. Newstend is condemned to death on the gallows for treason. Gasper, who is not satisfied as to his Captain's guilt, has a drinking bout with Vermoil at the Yellow Pig publicouse, and under the influence of many flagons of Rhenish wine forced on him by Gasper. Vermeil talks freely and lots out the truth. He is the real traitor and, with the assistance of Gabrielle. Gasper obtains the release of Newstead and the conviction of Vermeil. The igalous Frenchman, however, chears the follows by cutting his own throat in presonce of the Court. Alvan troops had meanwhile gone to Alkmaar and this place becomes so sorely promed that the good Governor St Trond against the advice of Newstead, ventures forth to give battle to he Spani rds, who are in overwhelming force. Gabriello twits Newstead with owardico in not accompanying her father. Newstead at once musters his men and goes off in hot haste to join the Governor. Ho arrives just in time to save the brave burghers from annihilation, but just too late to strike a heavy blow on Alva which opportunity afforded. After many councils, t is resulted to flood the Sus lards out of the country round Alkmaar by breaking the dyken and letting in the sea. The trusty Chaper is left in charge of the sluices and awaits the signal to take them. However. Newstead by a bold stroke averts this calamity and at the same time rids the country of the Spani rd . Disguised sa a travelling armourer, by visits the Spanish camp, and while shatpening the swords of his spenies, talks to them of what the Hollanders had hade up their minds to the Imperial Court, but we are as far off as wild-five in the comp and the mon insist on being withchawn, which they are. THE PLAGUE.

We are asked to correct the statement that the boy T. Thomas became sick of plague at Queen's College. T. Thomas has not been at Queon's College since August 1900. We are asked by Mr W. Lysaught to state that the invalid did not occupy any property or house of his. We regret that we were the medium of publishing these misstatements; the mistake was not ours but originated in the Sanitary Board Office.

It seems as if the plague epidemic is now at an end. Yesterday's cases numbered only 5, and to-day the figure is reduced to 3, all Chinese. The deaths recorded number 4, all Chinese. There have been no admissions of Europeans during the past twenty-four hours, and the doctor's report from the Hospital is that all the European patients are doing well.
